WELCOME

Following the successes of the past 12 editions, we are proud to introduce and welcome you to the 13th Symposium on Biodegradable Metals in Alicante, Spain from Sunday August 22 to Friday August 27, 2021.

This year again, the symposium will emphasize its academic-conference-style with an openly discursive format, rather than a lecture and question-answer format. This style will be completed by the traditional discussions and the unconventional daily free-time sessions early in the afternoon. Behind the presentations, this symposium aims to discuss open questions on the session topics, new approaches, background knowledge, and personal views among the participants. Furthermore, discussions at the poster session will focus on specific topics and will encourage the participants to raise critical questions or help each other advancing the field of biodegradable metals.

We look forward to welcoming you to the 13th Biometal2021
